Justice Page Rules Supreme Court
Mandate Does Not Hold Good
Now That Trial is Over.

(Special to The Herald)
New York, March 16.—Holding that the Supreme Court of the United States did not hold good now that the trial for conspiracy was over, Justice Page in the Supreme Court this morning denied the motion of Harry K. Thaw's attorneys to have him returned to New Hampshire. The justice said that the Dowling commitment which sent the slayer of Stanford White to Matteawan was still in effect, and he ordered Thaw returned to the asylum.

TURKS GROWING UNEASY OVER THE FATE OF CAPITAL

Young Turks Getting Ready For De- fense of Constantinople in Case Allied Fleet Passes Through the Dardanelles

Germans Claim to Have Captured 2000 Russians in the Fighting in Poland

Paris, March 16.—Uneasiness over the fate of the capital is growing in Constantinople, according to advices received from Athens. The Young Turks are said to be particularly anxious regarding the Allies' efforts to force the Dardanelles and are preparing for flight. Many Germans are sending their families from the city, although it is said they are endeavoring to convince the Turks that the straits are impregnable.

According to a Havas Agency dispatch, the Sultan Selim, formerly the German cruiser Goeben, undoubtedly is out of commission. "There is a rent in her armor eighteen yards long, said to have been caused by a Turkish mine," the dispatch reads.

The Havas Agency's correspondent at Athens telegraphed yesterday:

"The French hospital ship Canada has arrived to take on provisions. She will leave immediately for the Dardanelles."

It is reported that there are sixty convalescents on board the Canada, but none suffering from gunshot wounds. In this connection the statement is made here that since the beginning of the fighting in the Dardanelles not a single French sailor has been struck. It is a fact, nevertheless, that the aim of the Turkish gunners is improving.

From several sources news is reaching Athens, the correspondent continues, that the agitation by the Mussulmans against the Young Turks and the Germans is increasing.

A pledge to the Allies that Greece would place at their disposal 9,000 men for the Dardanelles expedition had been made to the Chancelleries of the Triple Entente by Mr. Venizelos, formerly the Greek Premier, on March 4. Yesterday's Petit Parisien, The London and Paris cabinets expressed the desire that Petrograd be invited to endorse Mr. Venizelos' action.

"From the 4th to the 6th," the Petit Parisien adds, "Bulgaria was strongly preoccupied by the attitude of Greece. The formation of a Bulgarian national defence ministry was considered prior to taking the field against Turkey and embracing the golden opportunity provided by the action of Enver Pasha in sending to the Gallipoli Peninsula the troops garrisoned at Adrianople.

"London and Paris learned on March 7 that Mr. Venizelos had resigned as Premier. At the same time formal announcement was received from Mr. Sazonoff, the Foreign Minister at Petrograd, of Russia's adhesion to the agreement projected between the Allies and Greece.

"Since that time Bulgaria has assumed an expectant attitude, but knows that the Triple Entente will raise no objection to her taking the offensive and advancing to a line between Midia (on the Black Sea coast of Turkey) and Enos (on the Gulf of Saros). It is evident her intentions have not left Turkey unmoved, for the Porte has sent toward Chatalja and Adrianople part of the force of 140,000 men which constitutes all the troops she has in Europe."

(Special to The Herald)

Berlin, March 16.—Defeat for the British, French and Russian forces is announced in an official statement issued by great headquarters today. French trenches north of Beausjour, in the Champagne region, were taken, it is claimed, and 2000 Russians were captured in the fighting in northern Poland.

GERMANS LOST 18,000 AT NEUVE CHAPELLE

(Special to The Herald)

London, March 16.—It is estimated that the Germans lost 18,000 men in the fighting around Neuve Chapelle, north of La Bassée, in France, during the recent engagements. These figures are contained in the bi-weekly report by Field Marshal French which has been made public.

GERMAN CRUISER DRESDEN SUNK

London, March 16.—The British admiralty announced tonight that the German cruiser Dresden had been sunk.

Following is the statement: "On March 14, at 9 a. m., H. M. S. Glasgow, Capt. John Luce, R. N., H. M. auxiliary cruiser Orana, Capt. John R. Segrave, R. N., and H. M. S. Kent, Capt. John D. Allen, C. B., R. N., caught the Dresden near Juan Fernandez Island.

"An action ensued, and after five minutes' fighting the Dresden hauled down her colors and displayed the white flag. She was much damaged and set on fire, and after she had been burning for some time her magazine exploded and she sank.

"The crew were saved, fifteen badly wounded. The Germans are being landed at Valparaiso.

"There were no British casualties and no damage to the ships."

SERIOUS FIRE THREATENED TO DESTROY BRIDGE

Newburyport — Catastrophe
Prevented by Quick Action
On Part of David Dickie.

David C. Dickie, passing over the bridge shortly after midnight, noticed flames issuing from the pier of the bridge.

The fire department was called on the phone by Mr. Dickie. The men made short work of the fire by the use of chemicals and axes and hard work.

It is thought that the fire started from a spark emitted by a passing engine. This spark apparently went between the cracks of the pier and caught the timbers affixing it, making it difficult for the firemen to reach it.

The fire was about 25 yards north of the Newburyport bridge and between there and the B. and M. railroad bridge. The damage was about $50.

The Newburyport bridge, crossing the Merrimack, was threatened by destruction by fire this morning. Mr.

FIRE TWICE THREATENED BOAT SHOP AT YARD

The boat shop at the navy yard, one of the most valuable buildings on the yard, was twice threatened by fire on Monday evening and for a time the valuable boats under construction and the big stock of seasoned timber was in great danger.

The first fire was discovered at 9.15 by the sentry and an alarm sent in. The fire had originated evidently from a ground of the main feed wire into the building as the fire was confined to where it comes into the building. The flooring was burned some, but it was apparently extinguished by a stream of water.

At 9.50 the fire again broke out and another alarm was sent in, and the fire was apparently in the same place, although it had spread under the flooring and was in a fair way of getting away, when discovered.

The loss is confined entirely to the building and the damage is not very great, principally to the flooring. None of the many boats in various stages of construction were damaged, nor was any of the valuable timber burned. At the present time this is one of the departments of the yard, which is working full time, with orders enough ahead to keep the force working for several months. Its loss by fire would have been a serious blow to the yard.

"THE JAPAN MISSION."

Rev. Mr. Attwood Delivered Interesting Illustrated Lecture on Subject.

On Sunday evening, Rev. Luther Weston Attwood delivered a very brilliant lecture, illustrated by the stereopticon at the Universalist church to a large and appreciative audience.

The title of his lecture was "The Japan Mission" and he stated that in 1890 the Universalist church, their mission in the city of Tokyo, which is not only the largest city in Japan, but one of the largest in the world, the railroad center and the capital of the empire, where are located the Imperial Palace and the buildings of the various foreign legations, so it is the seat of all the great diplomatic, military and social functions. It is also the literary and educational metropolis. The only college for women is located in this city, and with one or two exceptions the colleges for men have all been established here. This is where the Universalists first pitched their tents and from which their missionaries have radiated.

He showed pictures of the Emperor welcoming the missionary workers and also of the "Peerless Fujiyama" and also of the methods used in the growing of rice, tea picking and silk making.

Beautiful pictures of the various festivals of the year were displayed and the scenery in "Cherry Blossom Time." He also related about the work of the Blackmer Home for Girls, and told of the work of the Universalist Missionaries who have given up so much of their life in this country. Among those he mentioned were Miss Catherine M. Osborn, Miss M. Agnes Hathaway, Rev. Nelson L. Lobdell, Lucian Blackmer, founder of the Blackmer Home for Japanese Girls. He also gave detailed descriptions of the work in the Sunday school the school and the kindergarten.

The pictures were beautiful and the collection the finest ever seen in this city.

U. S. SAILORS ARE WONDERFUL MARKSMEN

Washington, March 15.—Uncle Sam's playing foxy. At least, he's that way when it comes to letting the world know just how good his bright young men are on their navy target practice. And there's a reason.

It used to be the custom for the United States navy to parade its target records. Then when the aforesaid Uncle Sammy had done with this advertising, the other nations stepped proudly forth and let the United States know where they, too, stood, on hits and misses. But war changed a lot of things, and among others the matter of advertising just how fast and how far and how well American gunners can shoot. Hence today records of the past and present, and comparison with other nations, is withheld for the most part.

Made With Small Gun

So, when a few weeks since, gentle reader, you read that William Rufus, gun painter aboard the Texas had smashed a world's record to smithereens by making eight hits with a 14-inch gun, firing at a moving target 12 miles away, you didn't have the exact facts. Neither did you have exact information, when you saw in the movies another young man aboard the Georgia portrayed as Uncle Sammy's "champion."

Rufus did break into the limelight, but his marks—whatever they may be—were made with a small gun. And when the crew of the San Diego made 100 per cent of hits on a range near the Colorado islands with an eight-inch gun, firing at the rate of 3.1-2 shots a minute, that was not all, either.

On the other hand, the real dyed-in-the-wool gunner for the past year, when it comes to hitting the ballseye with a 14-inch cannon, is L. V. Lindsey of the Texas, an ordinary seaman. Manipulating one of these 14-inch peat and ringing the bell frequently is a real feat, so Lindsey gets special recognition for his work.

The leading 12-inch gunners are W. E. Meyers, seaman on the Arkansas, and E. L. Talley, coxswain of the Georgia.

Back in the days when Uncle Sammy used to do a bit of advertising about his gunners' ability—say around 1895—a shot every three minutes from the turret guns—11, 12 and 14 inches—was considered satisfactory, while one a minute from a six-inch gun was also looked upon as a paper figure. And if the hit averaged 3.1-2 per cent, as in the battle of Santiago, the navy felt well content. The hitting in that battle, however, was chiefly with small guns at a range less than two miles.

Shooting Better Now

But in these days of "Big Berthas" and the like shooting and hitting in the United States navy is far higher than it used to be. Now two shots a minute from the big turret guns and about eight from the smaller guns is considered a fair record. The hits, however, run higher.

The big 14-inch guns which can create a lot of wreckage up to 14 miles score about 26 per cent on hits, at least that was the record when last figures were made public in 1911 in connection with firing at the old San Marcos target, in Chesapeake bay.

Incidentally, Secretary of Navy Daniels had this to say on the general subject of target practice a few days since:

"Some people complain that our navy hasn't had enough target practice recently. But I want to say that the practice we had in going to Vera Cruz was more valuable than the target training could be. We picked up and got down there in double quick time and everything ran like clock-work. That training was invaluable."

NAVY TO HAVE AVIATION STATIONS

Washington, March 15.—Congressional approval is all that is needed for the establishment of Government aeroplane manufacturing plants at Philadelphia and New York. Plans for such factories have been prepared by the Navy Department, each to cost about $37,000 and each capable of turning out two or three machines a month, at a cost of about $5,000 each.

Though the War Department some years ago purchased a small dirigible balloon, Army aviation officials have never felt warranted in developing that type of air craft and have concentrated all their efforts on the aeroplane. The navy, however, is about to embark on a set of experiments to determine the availability of the dirigible for use on air craft to hover for long periods over one spot, such as the entrance to a harbor or near a parent ship, is believed to be a valuable feature.

Specifications have been prepared for such a machine, upon which proposals will be invited, by comparison with the giant Zeppelins of Germany. This will be a miniature air craft, with a length of 175 feet, a height of 50

Portsmouth, N. H., Tuesday, March 16, 1915.

Equal Justice for All.

This paper has at times commented upon an evil that is commonly spoken of as "one law for the rich and another for the poor." These comments have been based on the fact that in many cases—in a majority of cases, it may truthfully be said—rich and poor do not fare alike in answering for crimes and offenses of a similar or exactly like character. Wealth or social or political prominence appears to offer a shield to law breakers which is not available to the poor and unimportant. And this paper is not alone in recognizing this drift in the wrong direction. It has been a matter of common observation for years, and it is to be hoped that as consideration is given to the abuse and the dangers to which it gives rise there will be brought about a change, and that this country may be in reality what it is in theory, a land of equal opportunity and equal justice for all.

That people in high places are noting the growth of this evil and speaking out is encouraging. One of the latest to be heard from is Professor Phelps of Yale, whose attention was attracted by two sentences recently imposed by Connecticut courts. One of the defendants was a man of social prominence who stole thousands of dollars from a woman who trusted him. He was sentenced to two years in prison. The other defendant was a poor man who stole $200 worth of silver and an overcoat, and for this offense he was sentenced to imprisonment for ten years.

Professor Phelps was unable to see justice in such evident discrimination, and briefly called the attention of a New Haven newspaper to the cases. The only explanation offered by the paper was that the courts are more severe with old offenders than with first offenders. Such action on the part of the courts is proper to a certain extent, but it does not do away with the fact that crime should be dealt with according to its seriousness, whether the defendant be rich or poor, obscure or socially prominent. Two years for stealing thousands and ten years for stealing hundreds does not constitute justice in the view of Professor Phelps or in the view of the public, and it is not justice.

There is hardly a place in the life of today where reform is more needed than in this field. No country can endure and prosper with one law for the rich and another for the poor. There must be equal opportunity and equal justice for all if free institutions and a government worth having are to be handed down to posterity.

The federal law restricting the sale of drugs is making trouble. Many users of drugs are sufferers from incurable diseases, and among those who use them from force of habit there have been a number of suicides. It is probable that the regulation will be eased in places when it is realized that the evil, great as it is, cannot be removed instantly by a stroke of the pen.

The Maine constable who recently arrested his innocent son-in-law as a fugitive from justice was certainly faithful to his official obligations. He reminds one of the constable in the play, "Our New Minister," who after having arrested an innocent person explained that "My position compels me to be suspicious."

The Massachusetts Agricultural College has established a course in rural journalism to train writers for the promotion of agriculture through the columns of the press. To some it seems as if there are writers enough already, and that the real need is men for the fields rather than the sanctum.

That Culebra cut is clearly the champion slider of the world, and again deep-draft vessels are excluded from the canal until the mud is scooped out. But there ought to be an end to this thing some time. The canal plugged with mud would be highly embarrassing "in case of war."

The attempt of the spoilsmen to do away with assistant postmasters has failed, and this is well. It was a brazen effort to get around the civil service law, and its failure is gratifying to all who believe that the public service is still entitled to some consideration.

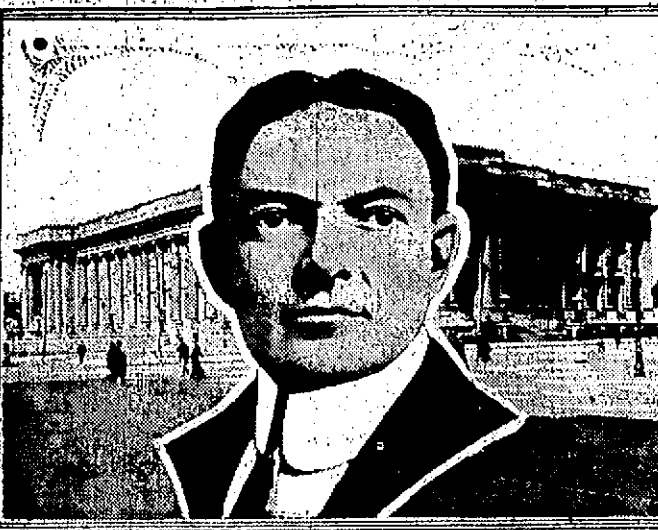

A thrifty New Englander has established a worm farm to raise bait for fishermen, and the chances are that he will be more successful in his enterprise than the men who use the bait.

The British credit system is said to be flexible. In this country many business men are suffering the consequences of having made their credit systems too flexible.

The March weather record to date is something unusual.

Pretty near maple sugar time.

Mayor Roberts of Terre Haute and Political Friends Placed on Trial

Mayor Donn M. Roberts of Terre Haute, Ind., and twenty-seven others, many of them also officials of that city, were placed on trial in the federal court building at Indianapolis, charged with election frauds. According to the charges of the government, Roberts and his ring, including over fifty who have already pleaded guilty, conducted the most wholesale and most brazen political fraud scheme in years. Votes were freely bought for 25 cents. The fall election was brazenly stolen, it is alleged. A picture of Roberts, who, with the twenty-seven others, denies the charges, is here shown, with the Indianapolis federal building.

PASTOR RUSSELL'S HAPPY COLONY

Newspaper Writer Gains Entrance to Brooklyn "Bethel."

New York, March 15.—At No. 124 Columbia Heights, Brooklyn, where the famous preacher, Henry Ward Beecher lived for many years, the strange religious cult of Pastor Russell has its headquarters.

The disciples of the pastor, hundreds of young men and women, live in scores of buildings in the neighborhood none of them especially built or designed for the purpose. On the lower floor of No. 122-24, Columbia Heights and extending through to the rear is an immense dining hall seating 300 persons where the Pastor Russell pupils living in the various dormitories dine together, that is when there are not so many that several "tables" are necessary.

Every age, in fact every decade of the world's history has had its own religious innovation. Some die early, while others endure indefinitely. It remains to be seen whether Pastor Russell is to found a movement to overshadow the permanence of those of Mrs. Gatty or Prince Hall, or one which will end in failure, like Bowles.

Although Pastor Russell's sermons are printed as advertisements by news papers throughout the United States and in those of several European countries where his doctrines have spread, newspaper writers are not held in high esteem at "Bethel," as the Columbia Heights institution is called. It was only by rare good fortune that the writer was permitted to visit this curious place.

I entered the great dining hall at the evening meal. The array of young persons reminded me of some great college "Commons." College students could not have been better behaved either. There was a buzz of quiet conversation.

The young women are sedately dressed, but I noted among them several whose beauty would have caused them to be singled out of any multitude. The table setting was agreeable and the room was pleasantly furnished.

The neat young women who acted as waitresses moved swiftly and efficiently. "They are pupils of Pastor Russell too," said my guide. "All the girls are cared for carefully," he continued. "We didn't have room enough for them in the big building, so after the dormitory floors above were filled we refitted rooms nearly as best we could."

The girls work at all sorts of things part of the day and study the rest of the time, taking liberal hours for recreation. They can leave any time they wish, but are happy and contented. They are guests of the International Bible Students Association and there are no charges of any kind.

These young men and women are being trained to carry the word of Pastor Russell all over the world. In this regard the pastor has taken a piece out of the campaigning methods of the "Latter Day Saints."

The money to carry on the work comes from voluntary contributions, and apparently the Pastor is never hampered for funds. There have been various attacks on him, one in regard to his "atrocious Whore," but he goes serenely on his course. One of his principal activities is a moving picture drama based on the creation, which is now to be seen in most of the great cities of the world.

Some time ago there was an investigation of Pastor Russell in connection with the case of Ruth Galbraith, a 17-year old convert, whose mother alleged she had been spirited away and was being improperly detained in the Brooklyn "Bethel." When Ruth was questioned she declared she was perfectly happy where she was, did not have to work hard, and would devote her life to Pastor Russell's work.

THE SUFFRAGE MELTING POT

New York, March 16.—The Suffrage Melting Pot, which was a prominent factor in raising money for the suffrage campaigns in the seven western states last Fall, has been opened again this year and rededicated by the National American Woman Suffrage Association to the service of New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Massachusetts in a proclamation issued by Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, President of the N. A. W. S. A. The women of the country are urged to give up what gold and silver trinkets they can spare to help their sisters in the campaign states.

"This year is one of the most important in the history of our movement," says the proclamation. "Four great eastern states submit their amendment this Fall. We recognize that the friends of suffrage, both men and women, have had extraordinary losses and upon them in the last ten months and we, in common with all other organizations, are finding it exceedingly difficult to meet the financial situation. But we have a plan that is rich in possibilities."

"We have made application for a copyright on the name of the Suffrage Melting Pot, in order to preserve the 'use and benefit' of it for the campaign states now and in the future, and we herewith authorize the opening of melting pots for the benefit of the states submitting amendments in 1915. Particularly we address ourselves to you, the women of Massachusetts, of New York, of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and urge that you leave in your treasure boxes no bit of gold or silver that can possibly be spared. We ask you to give something that may mean a sacrifice to the end that there may be money in the campaign chests for the struggle you are now facing."

The National has opened a melting pot at the Headquarters, 505 Fifth Avenue. As rapidly as gold and silver trinkets are received from the women, they will be melted up into bullion and converted into coin of the realm for the suffrage campaigns.

THOUGHTS FOR MANUFACTURERS

Your consumers—the people—read newspapers. The retailers—your distributors—read the newspapers. When the retailers want to advertise they use the newspapers. If you asked them where you should advertise, they would answer—the newspapers. Newspaper advertising not only creates specific consumer demand for goods, but it inspires the retailer to push the goods. It links the push and the pull. National manufacturers in search of specific information are invited to address the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York.

MRS. ANGLE ON WITNESS STAND

Testifies in Own Defense at Trial for Manslaughter of Waldo R. Ballou.

(Special to The Herald) Bridgeport, Conn., March 16.—Mrs. Helen M. Angle, of Stamford, went on the witness stand here this morning to tell for the first time publicly, her version of what occurred in her apartment in the Rippowan building on the night of June 23 last, when Waldo R. Ballou was found on the steps of the building dead.

As Mr. Klein led up to the occurrences in her apartment on the night Mr. Ballou was killed, Mrs. Angle showed extreme nervousness, and continually clasped and unclasped her hands on the arm of the witness chair. She said that she went from the convent in Yonkers, N. Y., to Boston, where she attended the New England Conservatory of Music, and studied languages there. She told of a telephone conversation with Mr. Ballou, and of his arrival at her apartments on the night of the tragedy. She said "he seemed tired, and I asked him where he had been, and what he had been doing. He replied that she had been up town to get something to drink, and that he had bought me a bottle of wine. This he handed to me, wrapped up in white paper." Mrs. Angle then told of several conversations which occurred between her and Mr. Ballou, following his arrival at her apartments. Mr. Ballou went to the sideboard and took several drinks while he was in her room, Mrs. Angle said, and once he insisted that she drink with him.

Approve Work On Washington

The department has approved at about $45,000 work on the cruiser Washington at this yard and have also requested the Industrial Department to set the length of time that would likely be required to make the repairs on the vessel. This request is made in order that the department can arrange a date to send the vessel to her home port. The Washington is the flagship of Rear Admiral William P. Caperion, in command of Captain Edward L. Beach. She is now at Vera Cruz, Mexico.

CURRENT OPINION

Universal Peace Will Come When Socialism Is In Supreme Control.

The history of the future will doubtless set this war as the end of one great era in the Socialist movement and the beginning of another. The present war and its far-reaching social and economic consequences are bound to modify our conception of a steady and even course of social development. It is bound to accelerate the trend of the modern world toward socialism and may bring us nearer to the goal by a sudden leap.

The war could have been averted, poverty could have been annihilated, and the world could have entered into an era of universal peace and good will if enough people had become Socialists.

We can say, then, that the war is bringing socialism closer, although no Socialist wanted it to come that way. We were once accused of being "bloody revolutionists." Opponents said that the adoption of our plans would plunge the world in blood.

Now, it must be apparent to all that the world has taken the plunge because of its refusal to adopt the only plan that could have prevented the catastrophe. Capitalism is expiring in blood. Socialism alone promises peace. —By Morris Hillquit, Secretary of the International Socialist Bureau.

long ago got in touch with him. He is expected to appear at the next smoker to occur at the naval prison and a genuine treat awaits the guard if he can be prevailed upon to appear.

ANOTHER TROOP ORGANIZED

Boys of Middle Street Baptist Church Form Troop 2, Boy Scouts.

A meeting was held in the parish house of the Middle Street Baptist church on Monday evening, and much enthusiasm was shown by the boys to form another troop of Boy Scouts and through the courtesy of Rev. W. P. Stanley it was volunteered to give the boys the use of the chapel rooms.

Mr. Harold M. Smith of Troop 1 gave a very interesting talk on Boy Scouts and their duties.

Applications to join the Boy Scouts in this city are steadily pouring in, and as the number of boys in Troop 1 is limited, a second troop has been organized. Forrest B. Drake, assistant scout master of Troop 1, will have charge of the newly formed troop, which will be known as Troop 2. Seventeen boys have already been enrolled as follows: Earl MacDonald, Forrest Burke, Parker Schumann, Eugene MacDonald, Emerson Gilmore, Paul Reddon, Watson Dares, Fred Eldridge, Ralph Appleton, Harold Elliot, Wyatt Wendell, Francis Burke, Clarence Reiden, Melvin Chandler, Alphon Horton, Arthur Weels, George Eldridge.

Harold Elliott was elected as scribe for this troop and is well adapted for the position, as he was a member of a troop in Malden, Mass., and has passed the tenderfoot examinations.

Forrest B. Drake also spoke in part as follows:

"I would like to say that this movement is not military and does not believe in military training for boys. It does, however, most firmly believe in discipline, that is, discipline developed from within—through the Boy Scout plan; not that kind of discipline imposed arbitrarily from without by military methods. This Boy Scout discipline develops initiative, resourcefulness and character; it shows itself in better health and ability to intelligently carry out instructions, a proper appreciation of the value of co-operation or team work and a due regard for the rights of others."

"The path of the organization requires duty to God and country, and with each boy striving conscientiously to abide by the oath, qualities of character are moulded which can much to future generations and much to the future standard of American citizenship."

"There are more than 2,000,000 boy scouts in various countries of the world today, in which America heads the list. There is estimated to be about 400,000 boy scouts in America today, so you can see for yourself the growth of this organization which started a little over five years ago."

RAILROAD NOTES

The passenger business of the Boston and Maine through Concord is now showing a consistent and healthy increase.

Engineers on the Boston and Maine railroad are ordered to be on the lookout for brush fires along the tracks, and their attention has been called to the necessity of sounding the alarm whistle in every case.

It is stated that the freight roster on the Southern Division of the Boston and Maine is to be reduced in the immediate discharge of 100 men. It is understood that this action which is due to the stagnation in business, has been brought about by the various organizations among the men in order to secure more work on the older members by the discharge of later additions to the force.

WILL ATTEND FUNERAL

Several Portsmouth people will attend the funeral of the late John E. Connor to be held at Newfields, on Thursday morning.

$60 WILL COVER $5,000 LOSS

Constructor Adams States the Account of Boat Shop Fire Was Exaggerated.

A local correspondent to an out-of-town newspaper, wired a wild and exaggerated account of the fire at the navy yard boat shop Monday evening, which they published. The story was printed on the first page under a scare head "55000 Loss in Navy Yard Fire." The newspaper is not to blame as a newspaper should have confidence enough in its correspondents' honor to publish news that is sent them.

Naval Constructor Adams, the Industrial Manager of the yard, stated to The Herald this morning that the loss resulting from the fire would not exceed $60. Two windows were broken, the floor in places slightly charred, a few feet of conduit to be replaced, and one of the men's tool boxes destroyed, is the entire extent of the damage. That is Constructor Adams' estimate of the loss occasioned by the $5000 fire in the boat shop Monday night.

CASCARETS CURE HEADACHE, COLDS, CONSTIPATION

To-night! Clean your bowels and stop headache, colds, sour stomach.

Get a 10-cent box.

Take a Cascaret to-night to cleanse your Liver, Stomach and Bowels, and you will surely feel great by morning. You men and women who have headache, coated tongue, a bad cold, are bilious, nervous, upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have backache and feel all worn out. Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets—or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry off the constipated waste matter and poison from the bowels.

Remember, a Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning. A 10-cent box from your druggist means healthy bowel action; a clear head and cheerfulness for months. Don't forget the children.

FIFTY ACRES BURNED OVER

Three Buildings Damaged in Bad Blaze at Rochester.

On Monday afternoon there was an alarm of fire for a blaze on the farm of Charles Estes at Dry Hill, Rochester. From some unknown cause it caught in the grass near the river and burned over fifty acres of grass land. The firemen quickly responded to the alarm and were ably assisted by the neighbors. On this farm is the parental home of the wife of Mayor William Wright and the mayor was present during the fire, assisting in subduing the flames.

The blacksmith shop on the farm with contents was totally destroyed, and two other buildings on the estate, an iron foundry and carpenter shop caught, but the fire was extinguished before much damage was done. Mr. Estes operated the foundry years ago very successfully. The total loss will amount to about $200 with no insurance.

EMERY WILL CASE AGAIN IN COURT

Will Be Heard in Boston on May 12th.

Samuel W. Emery and his sister, Mrs. Weeks of Amesbury, and Miss Marguerite Emery of this city will continue the fight in the courts of Massachusetts in their attempt to break the will of their late father, Judge Samuel W. Emery of Boston and Portsmouth.

The next trial in the superior court at Boston has been set for May 12. This will make the second trial before a jury. The case has so far been before the several courts on the merits for a decision, the last hearing being before Judge Fessenden of the Massachusetts supreme court who ordered a new trial on the ground that the ground that the verdict rendered in a previous court was contrary to the evidence submitted.

VICE PRESIDENT TO HAVE FLAG

White Flag With Blue Eagle to Run Up at Pole on Warships.

Washington, March 15.—The Navy Department this afternoon decided to do all in its power to boost the dignity and importance of the Vice President of the United States from the foundation of the Republic until the present day. Vice Presidents have been compelled to get along the best way they could without a naval flag.

Mr. Daniels announced today that when Vice President Marshall boards the Colorado in San Francisco Harbor, a white flag with a blue eagle shall be run up at the flagpole. It will be the first time that the navy has ever used such a flag and hereafter one will be kept handy on every vessel to be kept handy when a Vice President appears.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives is the next on the flag list eligible.

BAD FIRE IN DOVER WOODS

Area One-Half Mile by Two Burned Over Monday Afternoon.

One of the largest grass and forest fires which has occurred in Dover for a number of years started on Dover Point road on the farm of Howard Roberts and ran through the farms of James Gibbs, James Ford, and D'Orville Pinkham on Monday. The fire broke out about noon and burned an area about half a mile wide and nearly two miles in length. Considerable lot of growth was damaged, orchards and grass lands. A building belonging to D'Orville Pinkham was slightly damaged. Through the hard and quick work of the firemen the farm buildings along the route were saved. The fire started evidently from sparks of a locomotive on the Dover branch of the Boston and Maine railroad. At 3.30 o'clock, Chief Smith of the fire department announced that he thought that they had the fire under control. The damage to the growth and orchards will amount to thousands of dollars.

LOCKADE OF MEXICAN PORTS DROPPED

Washington, March 15.—Gen. Carranza has abandoned his blockade of the Port of Progreso on urgent representations by the United States that the port must be kept open.

The Mexican gunboat Zaragosa has been called off and two American ships laden with sugar for the United States were cleared Saturday without interference.

Through the Port of Progreso practically all the sugar used in making softening lime for this country is obtained. The Washington Government was prepared to back up its demand with the cruiser Des Moines, now at that port.

Some fear is felt here concerning the safety of foreigners at Manzanillo because of the inability of Gen. Carranza's forces to maintain order here and the diminishing food supply. American warships now in the vicinity of Manzanillo probably will bring foreigners there away, should conditions not improve.

New Orleans, March 15.—The Norwegian steamship Alm is on her way from here to Progreso with a valuable cargo purchased here by merchants of Merida, capital of Yucatan, who were sent to New Orleans to receive the shortage of food in that city.

Prominent Merida merchants here said they had received assurances that the Washington Government would protect all shipments of food to Yucatan, and that the cruiser Des Moines, now at Progreso, would prevent any interference with American commerce by Carranza's gunboats.

The Alm is one of the first vessels to sail for Progreso, since Carranza ordered the port closed Feb. 13. President said "Terrible Risk" is Run by Mexico.

Washington, March 15.—President Wilson's reply to Gen. Carranza's note of March 8, which was in response to the urgent representations of the United States for better treatment of foreigners in Mexico, was as follows:

"I thank you for your message of the 8th of March, for the reassurance conveyed, and for your kind personal words. I beg that you will understand that if our messages occasionally are couched in terms of strong emphasis, it is only because they contain some matters which touch the very safety of Mexico itself and the whole possible course of its future history.

"We seek always to act as friends of the Mexican people, and as their friends it is our duty to speak plainly about the grave danger which threatens them from without, whenever anything happens within, the borders, which is calculated to arouse the hostile sentiment of the whole world.

"Nothing will stir that sentiment more promptly or more hotly, or create greater danger for Mexico than any, (even temporary) disregard for lives, the safety or the rights of the citizens of other countries resident within its territory, or any apparent contempt for the rights and safety of those who represent religion.

"Any attempt to justify or explain these things will not eradicate this sentiment or lessen the danger that will arise from them.

"To warn you concerning such matters is an act of friendship, not of hostility, and we cannot make the meaning too earnest. To speak less plainly or with less earnestness would be to conceal from you a terrible risk which no lover of Mexico should care to run."

INSPECTING THE PRINZ EITEL

Newport News, Va., March 15.—American naval experts were going ahead today with their examination of the German converted cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich, in drydock here, to ascertain what repairs are required to make the vessel seaworthy. They resumed their task despite the fact that Captain Thierichens of the Prinz Eitel has thus far failed to notify the American Government of the time he desired, granted for repairs, although he has been twice requested to do so by Norman Hamilton, collector of the port here. The disposition of Charles Frank and Robert Rogge of the crew of the American sailing ship William P. Frye, destroyed by the Prinz Eitel and detained aboard the German vessel today hinges upon instructions from the Treasury Department regarding representations to be made to Captain Thierichens. The question is as to the right of the captain to take men from an American ship and hold them for the German naval service, even if they are Germans and subject to such service. Some of the crew of the Frye had made sworn statements to Collector Hamilton that one of the men was being detained against his wishes.

Four allied warships are waiting outside the Virginia capes for the reappearance of the German cruiser. It is said that two of them are British and two French.

BERLIN MUM ON FRYE'S LOSS

Berlin, via London, March 15.—Berlin newspapers without exception refrain from commenting upon the sinking of the American ship William P. Frye by the German converted cruiser Prinz Eitel Friedrich. These newspapers have published nothing upon the subject beyond accounts of the event and a statement from the captain of the vessel that he was well treated.

PAVEMENT FOR MIDDLE STREET?

The Board of Public Works and the members of the City Council are seriously considering what will be done with Middle Street this year. No provision for repairs were made in the appropriation bill, and if it is done it will be by a serial bond issue. Every body agrees that it should be put in shape for travel. It is the main artery of travel through the city and used by thousands of automobiles, so that what over work is done must be of a permanent nature.

The Board of Public Works strongly advocates a pavement of some kind, as they consider that any other form of road building, on heavily traveled roads, is a waste of money. Just what kind of pavement will be used is not decided, whether it will be brick like Richards avenue, or the bituminous pavement, laid last year on Deer and Ballington streets, which seems to be giving very good satisfaction.

It is understood that the Council members are considering the matter now and may make some decision at the next meeting the last of this month.

SECRETARY STANDING BACK OF OFFICER

Washington, March 15.—The war department is standing squarely behind Capt. T. F. Ryan, recruiting officer at Indianapolis, who was recently cited for contempt of court for his criticism of a local judge who attempted to sentence a prisoner to enlistment in the army.

The captain has been instructed by the department to appear before the court and disclaim any intention of contempt, but he is to state that he acted, on behalf of the federal government with a view of bringing before the public a proper conception of the attitude of the government in the matter and to represent that the action of the court is calculated to injure the army and prevent the enlistment of good men.

The department of justice will assign to the nearest district attorney the defense of Capt. Ryan, if necessary, and the officer is instructed to decline to pay any fine, with the understanding that if committed for contempt he will be promptly taken out under a writ of habeas corpus.

DARTMOUTH PROM PLANS

Junior Weeks Comes Earlier This Year.

Several important announcements have come out of Hanover this morning. It is stated for one thing, that the annual Dartmouth Junior Week celebration will come a week earlier than usual this year and that a prom dinner, at which all the students and guests will meet in a farewell entertainment, has been added to the programme. The other events will be the same as in previous years. It is also announced by the trustees that Philip G. Clapp of Boston has been made director of music at the college for three years and that no tuition will be charged New Hampshire school teachers at the coming summer session.

BROUSSA, THE NEW TURKISH CAPITAL

Athens, March 15.—The Sultan Mohammed V., his small harem, and his principal treasures are now safe at the new Turkish capital of Broussa. Asia Minor, a city beloved of the Ottoman because it is the last resting place of their first monarch, Osman the Conqueror.

All the Sultans have deemed it a duty to make at least one pilgrimage for the purpose of praying at the tomb of Osman, founder of their dynasty. The rule was only once broken, by the dissolute Abdul Hamid, predecessor of the present Sultan and now a prisoner at Salonica.

When the Young Turk party put Mohammed V. on the throne in 1909 he did not delay long before going to spend some days in the Green Mosque which contains the tomb of Osman.

The ancient palace of Broussa was prepared for his reception and the people of the city strewn flowers in his path to welcome him. The population of 75,000 consists of 40,000 Moslems, 33,000 Christians and 2000 Jews.

Osman and his successor Orhan are interred in the circular church of St. Elias, which was destroyed by earthquake and fire and subsequently rebuilt as the Green Mosque. An American mission and British orphanage are located in the town, which exports millions of dollars worth of silks every year.

Broussa was founded at the suggestion of Hannibal of Carthage, it is said, and was the capital of the Bithynian kings for many decades.

The palace which the Sultan will occupy is known as the Yildiz Kiosk. It stands more than 1,500 feet above the town and was originally built for Abdul Hamid. It is an unpretentious two-story edifice, painted green. The American school for girls is on the slope of the hill not far from the Kiosk.

Mohammed V. has a harem much less extensive than his voluptuous predecessor, who possessed no less than 476 women. The appearance of the Sultan's children in the streets of Constantinople has never been attended with much circumstance. They could be seen passing down the Rue de Pera, the main thoroughfare of Constantinople, in a simple carriage—three stalwart young men with the blue eyes and white skin of Europeans, all still in their twenties.

The Sultan's wives are not all Turks, for a Sultan can choose where he pleases. The Sultan's mother was an Armenian, while his grandfather married a Russian peasant girl.

DOES RHEUMATISM BOTHER YOU?

The Doctors Say "Use Musterole"

So many sufferers have found relief in MUSTEROLE that you ought to buy a small jar and try it.

Just spread it on with the fingers. Rub it in. First you feel a gentle glow then a delicious cooling comfort. MUSTEROLE relieves the twinges, loosens up stiffened joints and muscles.

MUSTEROLE is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It penetrates to the seat of pain and drives it away but does not blister the tenderest skin.

It takes the place of the messy, old fashioned plaster.

MUSTEROLE is recommended for Bronchitis, Croup, Asthma, Pleurisy, Lumbago, Neuralgia, Sprains, Bruises, Stiff Neck, Headache and Colds of the Chest (it often prevents Pneumonia.)

At your druggists in 25c and 50c jars, and a special large hospital size, for $2.50.

Be sure you get the genuine MUSTEROLE. Refuse imitations—get what you ask for. The Musterole Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

SENSATIONAL SUBMARINE PICTURES AT THE BOSTON THEATRE ATTRACTING THOUSANDS

It is not often that a motion picture manager is able to show his patrons something never before seen in the other houses; a picture that is totally unlike anything else ever produced in the world. And yet this is what Manager William Wood of the Boston Theatre is doing by exhibiting the first and only motion pictures ever taken under water. These wonderful adventures were photographed in the clear waters of the Bahama Islands by the recently perfected Williamson Submarine Tube, the life work of Captain Charles Williamson of Norfolk, Va. Attached to this flexible tube that can be lengthened or shortened at will, is a stenciled spherical operating chamber of steel and glass, through whose flawless port, five and a half feet in diameter and two inches thick, were made the world's first pictures of a thrilling trip along the floor of the ocean. From the moment the first picture is flashed upon the screen until the last click of the projecting machine the delighted spectators are offered a photographic treat that is absolutely unparalleled in the history of motion pictures. The audience is taken on a thirty league trip along the bed of the ocean with starting scenes of beauty and thrills at every foot of the journey. The entertainment is really a travesty of adventures and discoveries at the bottom of the ocean, showing the wonders of the deep heretofore unknown to man, including coral grottoes, marine gardens, tropical fish and awe-inspiring sharks in battle. The performance at the Boston is continuous, starting at 12 noon and running until 11 p. m., daily and from 7:00 to 10:30 p. m. on Sundays. The price of tickets, for all performances, is 2 cents.

Although business enterprises and the show business in general, have been seriously affected by the world war, the motion picture industry has continued its march of progress unfettered, without indeed, the slightest perceptible shortening of its mammoth strides.

Such a condition is altogether unique in the history of amusements and causes the first serious break in the time proved relationship of office and theatre of big business and professionally provided pleasure.

Invariably the prosperity of the amusement world has been dependent upon and in well defined proportion to the prosperity of the business world.

A market depression in the financial market is always reflected in the box office, and since the commencement of the European strife and subsequent depression of big business, the dramatic stage, circus, carnival, and kindred amusements have received a jolt that has all but put them out of the running, and the majority of those which remain are conducted more upon the hope that springs eternal in the showman's breast than upon the actual receipts.

Not so with the motion pictures. On the contrary that extraordinary amusement with its appeal so broad as to touch all classes and its rates of admission so low as to be ever within easy reach of the masses, has shown a greater advance in prosperity from the exhibition side and a more rapid and vital development of the inventive constructive and prophetic side during the last six months than at any other given period of its existence.

Last September it was estimated that there were 17,000 theatres in the United States devoted to pictures. Today a conservative estimate places the figures at 21,000, while on the production side there has been an astonishing increase in the number of people employed (now about a quarter of a million) and the salaries paid them aggregate $2,515,000 weekly. The income of the combined picture shows is about $4,333,333 per day or close to $1.10 a year from every man, woman and child in the United States.

The manufacturers' progress during this same period has been most wonderful. Color photography has been highly perfected, directors have shown marked advancement in their work,

Providence, R. I., March 15.—Word has been received in this city today from Benjamin D. O'Connell, second officer of the Standard Oil tank steamer Pioneer, that the Pioneer was halted off the Scotch coast Feb. 16 by a British warship and a prize crew put aboard. The regular crew was sent to Kirkwall, Orkney Islands, for detention.

The Pioneer, with a cargo of oil for Copenhagen left Bayonne, N. J., early in February. She at one time was a German vessel the Klowa, but was brought under American registry several months ago.

Funeral services of Mrs. Caroline L. Mureston will be held at the home 158 State Street Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Friends invited.

PRINTERS' INK AND ITS USAGE

Washington, D. C., March 15.—A general description of the composition, manufacture, and properties of some of the common types of printing inks is contained in Circular No. 53 of the Bureau of Standards, which has just been issued.

The materials entering into the composition of printing inks are divided roughly into two classes, viz: oils and pigments. The first class includes linseed oil, rosin oil, the various semi-drying oils, gums (resins), rosin and soap. The second class includes the various pigments from which the inks derive their color and to some extent their consistency and working qualities. A brief description of the preparation and properties of these materials is given. The subject of inks is treated in a separate chapter. Various formulas are given showing the approximate composition of some inks.

The manufacture of printing inks is described showing the method of preparing the oil, varnish and pigments, the methods of mixing and grinding, etc.

The circular then takes up the question of the relation of ink to the paper. To obtain satisfactory results in printing, these two factors, ink and paper, must be carefully adjusted. It is well known that an ink which is satisfactory on one paper will not be so on another, all other conditions being constant. One phase of this relationship between ink and paper is the opacity of the ink, a subject of particular importance in the three and four color processes. Emphasis is laid on the necessity for the printer to select the proper grades of paper which will be suitable for his work.

The question as to what constitutes a good ink is often asked, and while this circular does not pretend to answer this directly it gives the requirements and tests specified by the Government Printing Office, which show how one Government department is handling this problem.

The Bureau of Standards has issued a technological paper on the subject of the analysis of printing inks, a abstract of which is included in the circular. The application of these tests and their relation to the practical tests under working conditions are given.

Owing to the importance of linseed oil in printing inks, a special chapter is devoted to the manufacture and properties of this oil.

A bibliography on inks, oils, and pigments is included for the benefit of those who wish to make a deeper study of the subject than the general nature of the circular permits.

Interested parties may obtain copies of this circular free of charge upon application to the Bureau of Standards, Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C.

MANUFACTURING AND EXHIBITING OF MOTION PICTURES NOW WORLD'S BIGGEST INDUSTRY

Even the War Fails to Check its Wonderful Growth

Although business enterprises and the show business in general, have been seriously affected by the world war, the motion picture industry has continued its march of progress unfettered, without indeed, the slightest perceptible shortening of its mammoth strides.

Such a condition is altogether unique in the history of amusements and causes the first serious break in the time proved relationship of office and theatre of big business and professionally provided pleasure.

Invariably the prosperity of the amusement world has been dependent upon and in well defined proportion to the prosperity of the business world.

A market depression in the financial market is always reflected in the box office, and since the commencement of the European strife and subsequent depression of big business, the dramatic stage, circus, carnival, and kindred amusements have received a jolt that has all but put them out of the running, and the majority of those which remain are conducted more upon the hope that springs eternal in the showman's breast than upon the actual receipts.

Not so with the motion pictures. On the contrary that extraordinary amusement with its appeal so broad as to touch all classes and its rates of admission so low as to be ever within easy reach of the masses, has shown a greater advance in prosperity from the exhibition side and a more rapid and vital development of the inventive constructive and prophetic side during the last six months than at any other given period of its existence.

Last September it was estimated that there were 17,000 theatres in the United States devoted to pictures. Today a conservative estimate places the figures at 21,000, while on the production side there has been an astonishing increase in the number of people employed (now about a quarter of a million) and the salaries paid them aggregate $2,515,000 weekly. The income of the combined picture shows is about $4,333,333 per day or close to $1.10 a year from every man, woman and child in the United States.

The manufacturers' progress during this same period has been most wonderful. Color photography has been highly perfected, directors have shown marked advancement in their work, the foremost actors of the legitimate stage have been enlisted with the film forces, apparatus of all sorts has undergone radical change and the production of even the poorest "manufacturers" has brightened up in tone and quality.

Perhaps the strangest feature of all this evolution and revolution is the fact that the real responsibility for the miraculous advancement of the art rests with only a small handful of men out of hordes that have rushed into it during its most active period. The new comers have evidently been drawn in from the prospects of quick monetary returns—many of them being showmen of a certain unprogressive form of amusement which has suffered much from the popularity of the picture show, and who actually spent great sums of money in the early days to "kill the industry." Today the original pioneers are still as they have ever been, the substantial and creative men of the industry and little has been accomplished by the new comers except in the way of exploitation and stock building.

The most notable example to be offered in illustration of this is David Horsley and his MinA (Made in America) Films. Horsley is spoken of in the film world as "the man of the hour." He was the first independent manufacturer in this country and for most in the pioneer days when a motion picture of a horse eating hay was a sensational achievement, and cameras and apparatus were so rare and expensive that he had to construct his own as best he could.

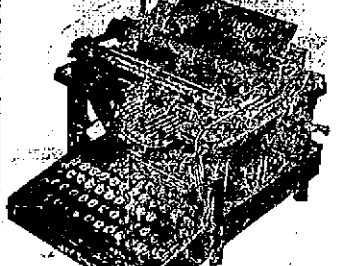

During the last six months this man has contributed nearly all of the important inventions which have enabled the motion picture to make its man elect at a recent suffrage meeting in New York told his hearers "that forward leaps and bounds. The list of his achievements seem fabulous. It includes an electric polisher for films, a continuous printer which makes the positive prints that are distributed in the theatres, an actometer which photographs the printed lines spoken by the characters so that the dialogue may be followed as the picture is shown on the screen and, greater of all, inventions since the first picture-taking device, a camera which makes a "straight" and a "reverse" negative, each with two separate exposures at one and the same time. This camera permits of trick photography that has never before been considered possible. And while all these brain creations were being perfected, this same man found time to establish an enormous studio and film factory in Bayonne, New Jersey, another studio in Los Angeles, has produced a new style of comedy pictures, purchased the Boystock Arena and Jungle, the largest collection of trained wild animals in the world and enclosed them in a five acre park in Los Angeles where they are used for show purposes and as motion picture actors. Last week Captain Jack Bonavita was engaged as a special feature in these pictures. Bonavita is famous the world over as a tame rat hound. He has hunted and trapped many varieties of animals in Africa, India and South America, and is noted as a writer and lecturer on such subjects. Mention of these facts is made to show the extent to which a manufacturer will go to secure novelty and to achieve perfection in special lines of production.

Although the record thus established by David Horsley is highly exceptional, big progressive things have also been accomplished by other men, but in almost every instance by the old times of industry, the men who came in at the beginning and learned their trade as they grew up with it and helped to make it grow.

Our method of washing cleanses the soiled linen without rubbing, which means longer life for the articles, no broken buttons, etc. The soap we use is better than the laundry soap you buy at stores. The extractor (the modern wringer) removes the surplus water without the injurious bearing pressure of rubber rollers. We do not mix washes, we clean every article 100 per cent perfect, for our methods are sterilizingly thorough. Call No. 373 and try our wet wash service.

PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE

New York City, March 15.—A movement to bring about the world-wide restriction of armies and navies by international agreement after the European war is over is being organized by any nation while the present war armaments at its headquarters at 43 Cedar Street, New York City, through correspondence and personal conferences with recognized leaders of public thought in a number of foreign countries.

The actual reduction of armaments by any nation while the present war is in progress is not advocated or expected by the League, but it is acting on the belief that the time is already at hand to organize for the movement even in the belligerent countries, so that whenever the movement should have influence it will be well under way as soon as its influence is needed.

"The idea of bringing about the reduction of armies and navies by international agreement," says the League in the announcement of its international program issued today, "is endorsed by many powerful American organizations, and we are undertaking to solidify the movement and coordinate the efforts along this line while the European war is still in progress in order to make the strongest possible presentation of the issue at the earliest opportune moment. We are not as an organization proposing methods of attempting to bring peace to Europe until Europe is ready to stop fighting of its own accord, nor are we committed to other proposals looking toward the abolition of war. We stand by what we hold to be the main proposition—that the reduction of all armaments to the least proportions consistent with the demands of normal tranquility, and the use of the money now going into destructive enterprises of war for the constructive agencies of peace, is the true solution of the peace problem.

establishments, we believe that if they were efficiently and economically managed, as they undoubtedly are not today if we are to believe our own experts, they would serve all our purposes, and more. We are therefore first of all for absolute efficiency in such forces as we must maintain as long as we must maintain them. Nobody can say that we will or that we will not have a war on our hands at any time in the future. To assert that we will is as absurd as to assert that we will not. But as long as half the world is in arms and war still remains the accepted mode of settling international disputes, armies and navies are bound to be with us.

"But that need not destroy our faith that they may some day either be abolished entirely or at any rate reduced to proportions which render them useless as instruments of international progress, treason, larceny, murder, and all the other crimes of violence in the calendar. We are standing in that faith and that is the end toward which we are working, with all due regard for the conditions of the day."

WELL BEHAVED EUROPE

Reagents for the Remarkable Decrease of Crime in London and Paris Since the War Began.

The decrease of crime in Paris, London and other European cities since the war began has been explained in several ways, but Mr. Alfred Capus, editor of the Paris Figaro, finds the reason in the fact that the plainer life of those of the upper strata of society lessens the temptation of those of the lower. Moreover, in the time of war the "literature of the outer boulevard," which may be expressed as "dime novel literature" or "shilling shockers," is not so much in evidence. Yet he doubts whether this slackness in crime will show after the war, and therefore urges that a certain amount of the present discipline of society be continued, and that Paris try more diligently than before to stop the growth of crime in the minds of the young, through whatever medium it is fostered. The Figaro also publishes the letter of a Belgian correspondent, who holds the press in general to blame for keeping crime, and pleads that the better class of papers should observe silence on criminal exploits after the war, in order to preserve the present improved conditions. That there should be less crime in Paris after the outbreak of war was not foreseen by at least one police magistrate of that city. As Mr. Capus notes:

"During the past five months not more than two or three acts that are really criminal have been committed in Paris. The divorce 'drama' lately reported, is perhaps the most serious; and I believe the only drama of passion of this winter. Also the Parisian Apaches have displayed extreme moderation."

"The argument that the war has caused this ebb of criminality is a fallacy sufficient, I recall that a police magistrate declared at the beginning of hostilities: 'It is to be feared that, owing to the withdrawal of men through mobilization, we shall suffer from an assortment of little Apaches, of fourteen, fifteen, or sixteen years, which shall prove a great danger in the present state of affairs. The pessimism of this magistrate lacks confirmation in the event. Not one young bandit, either through assassination or violence, has sought success.

"This is because the criminal instinct, joined with the opportunity, is not enough to result in a crime. There is the further necessity of a special atmosphere—superheated through example, bravado and the literature of the outer boulevards—in which this instinct enjoys intensive culture. Then at a given moment all the disturbed electric current centres upon an individual as pole, and the spark, that is to say, crime, flashes between society and him.

"Temporarily the war has gone away with two conditions in Paris. First, the environment in which this factor works himself up; and, secondly, the social conditions, which because of their effectiveness and disorder, attract the multifactor.

"Anarchy in the upper circles provoke temptation in the lower. It follows, therefore, that the severe discipline which rules over the upper classes in these days, quite naturally, without help of stern measures, without violence, murder and assassination, from springing from the lower.

"It is perfectly plain, too, that peace will not be able to maintain the present status and that we shall again behold crimes, and even beautiful crimes. Yet they may diminish in number if we are able to continue in some degree the discipline of these days; and if we stop the troubled portrait of vice even more forcibly from taking possession of the mind of the young."

This editorial called forth a letter from Augustus Laveleye, a Belgian whose excuse for the intrusion, as he calls it, is "his love for the high culture of France," in which he believes more firmly than ever, "the progress of humanity," as shown by the noble example of "our old allied races" in the present conflict. The writer's self-styled intrusion consists in a play familiar surely to the American press, and perhaps to that of all nations. It takes up the conclusion of Alfred Capus and says:

"Is not the first thing to be achieved an understanding among the press to keep silence about the crimes of the days to come? You will admit that the press is to blame, because, from whatever diverse motives, it satisfies an unhealthy curiosity of the public by spreading, with all the noisy exaggeration of print and picture, the horrors of crime.

"Before the war I always deplored the practice of journalism that minutely described the place, the weapons, and means used, the photographs of the guilty, etc., in a word, all the odious details of crime whose foul odor was forced upon one at the first glance given to certain newspapers.

Will the Greater Press advance so far after the war as to curb this advertising of crime? I ask you, not daring to hope so much. And yet all good citizens would be thankful to you if it should, and the country and humanity would be gainers thereby."—Translation made for The Literary Digest.

MISERY WIDESPREAD IN RUSSIA

Petrograd, March 15.—Heavy reports of conditions in Russia are constantly finding their way abroad. One would almost believe on reading these stories by correspondents of English birth and pro British prejudices, that Russia is better off now than in peace time. This is a shameful mistake.

The war burdens are bitter hard on the lower classes in the Empire. Misery is widespread.

It is true that the prohibition of the use of vodka has done something to alleviate the situation. But the effects are not as great as has been heralded abroad. What would be called "blind tigers" in the United States are springing up like mushrooms. Their specialty is "Pohunchik" said to be an imitation of a drink by the Chinese. It is much more potent than brandy or vodka.

Everywhere one hears complaints about the rising prices of the necessities of life. Speculators are blamed, of course, in addition the taxes are almost beyond endurance and hit the peasants especially hard.

The use of horses for food is increasing. The government has reduced the freight charges on horse flesh, recognizing that it is now the food of the very poor.

PLANS FOR SPRING WAR GAMES

Washington, March 15.—The most pretentious programme ever made for it has been completed for the mobilization of the Atlantic fleet, destroyer and submarine flotillas, and naval aviation corps of Newport on May 15. A naval problem on which the War College at Newport has been busy for weeks, and which will cover the coast from Nantucket to Montauk Point, will be worked out. It is understood that a fleet of fishing craft will carry out mine-sweeping manoeuvres. New York City will be the objective of the squadrons that will impersonate the enemy.

The fleet, commanded by an officer with the rank of admiral, is now at target and fleet exercises off Guantanamo, Cuba, which will end after more than a month, on April 3, when the entire fleet will start for Chesapeake Bay holding fleet drills on the way. The fleet is to reach Tangle Bay, in Chesapeake Bay, on April 9. Two days later the entire armada will put to sea again, and from April 11 to May 8, will shoot at targets off the capes of Virginia. May 8 the fleet will head for New York. It is due in the North River the following morning, there to remain at anchor while the officers and men enjoy shore leave until May 17. On June 1 the various ships will proceed to their home yards for docking and necessary repairs before starting on the long voyage to San Diego, San Francisco, and Seattle via the Panama Canal. The fleet will assemble in Hampton Roads on June 21, and is scheduled to sail for the canal on June 25.

SHIFTS IN DARTMOUTH NINE

Hanover, N. H., March 15.—Constant changing and shifting of the men about the various infield positions has been the policy of Coach Woods in the last few days of Dartmouth's baseball practice. The infield squad is showing consistent play for the short time it has been working. Sisk, formerly a first baseman, has been shifted to the outer extremity, and Stewart, whose eligibility has, until recently been doubtful, has been changed from third to first. Paine at present seems to have the call on the other candidates for first. He is a fast fielder, and handles the ball cleanly, although his throwing is slightly off form, a weakness which may be discounted, however, because of the poor lighting conditions in the cage.

Lapierre in the shortfield and Perkins at second, have displayed speed and stamina. The latter position also has for candidates Williams and Davies, both of whom are sure fielders. Coach Woods intends to cut the squad of infielders this week so that he may call out the outfield men for indoor drill. Infield games will then be arranged to give the pitchers practice in control and to furnish the other members of the squad with much-needed drill in batting.

LEAVE GERMANY TO CONSERVE FOOD

Copenhagen, via London, March 15.—The hotels and the better class of boarding houses here are crowded with well-to-do Germans who are ineligible for military service. It is said that these people responding to an appeal from the government, are leaving Germany in large numbers in order that there will be fewer people to feed while the war lasts.

It is reported from Sweden and Norway that many other Germans of similar class have arrived in those countries.

CLUB WOMEN WANT SUFFRAGE

The great mass of club women throughout the United States want the vote. Not only did the great Biennial Convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs ask for equal suffrage, but Federations in the following states have also endorsed it:

Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Utah, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

In the face of this widespread demand how can anyone reiterate that women do not want the vote?

FRESH AIR AND HEALTH

Dr. Neal Spoke Two Hours on Subject Before Young Men's Guild.

The young men of the Middle Street Baptist church met in the Guild Room on Monday evening and had as guests, the Men's Class.
A business meeting was held with Mr. Stewart S. Humphreys presiding. The attendance numbered forty. Dr. John H. Neal of Portsmouth gave a two hours' talk on "Fresh Air and Health," which was most interesting and instructive.
Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served, in charge of Carlton Badger and Wallace Rand.

THEY KISSED AND MADE UP

Officer McCaffery Makes Peace With the Olive Branch.

William Gentile, a resident of Brewster street, was accused by his wife of starting a rough house on Monday night at the home, in fact she told the police today that Bill had been pulling off some tragedy, and his actions were very unbecoming the head of the domicile.

Chief Hurley vested Officer McCaffery with the olive branch and sent him up to the house on a peace mission which was successful. When things began to look bad to Bill, he became touched with sorrow and after disposing of his war armor he welcomed the dove of peace, kissed his wife and said: "never again!"

The visiting officer will never forget the scene of reconciliation and he believes that Bill will forget all and be on his good behavior in the future.

POLANDER HITS JIMMY AND HIS BAG

Rural Cycle Rider in Mix-up With City Employee at Noon.

Jimmy Spinney, the city scavenger, played the immovable object to a Poland's role of irresistible force at the corner of State and Pleasant streets this noon. The Poland who hails from the suburban quarters, was attempting to turn right on a cycle when an auto blocked the right of way.

When he attempted to avoid hitting the auto he collided with James and his tag. Jimmy was taken by surprise and howled over for a post. The Poland tried to blow up several yards of curb and artificial stone sidewalk with his face, but the strategy board could find no damage inflicted on either.

After a short walk to the fountain on Market Square where the speed demonstrator rubbed his head, he mounted his cycle and departed for the rural districts.

For Monday and Tuesday

Today we will begin the first installment of the most mysterious serial ever attempted by any film company. "THE BLACK BOX" is not the kind of continued photoplay which keeps the patrons guessing from week to week, but every installment is a story in itself. Therefore you are not left in doubt as to what is going to happen the principal characters in the plot. "THE BLACK BOX" is a series of mysteries which follow one another in rapid succession. You see a new story each week and the redeeming feature of it is that they are played by the same people. See the first installment and you will be sure not to miss any of the following:
"Wolves of Society"—Rex two reels
"This is a Great Society Drama."
"The Chinatown Mystery"—Broncho, two reels.
A strong newspaper story.
"Heart Dents"—Reliance, two reels
"The Manicure Girl"—L-K-O.
"Hearts and Planets"—Keystone comedy.
Coming Wednesday and Thursday:
"Exploits of Elaine," 8th episode; "The Tennessee Hills, Kay-Dee, two reels;
"The Speed King," "Thammar," two reels; "An Oriental Romance," Imp, two reels; "The Laugh That Died," featuring Mary Miller; "A Lucky Leap," Keystone comedy.
Tuesday evening, gride dancing only.

prison, died at her home on the yard this Tuesday forenoon, aged 46 years and 6 months. Mrs. Catlin was a native of Newburgh, New York. The body will be sent there for services and interment tomorrow.
